Dear Ms. Lang:

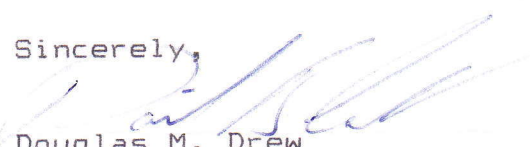

On behalf of the Cabbagetown Community Arts Centre and all of its members I wish to extend our sincere appreciation for your tremendous efforts.

Dining with the stars was a success mainly due to your countless volunteer hours, expertise in communications and ability to mobilize an army of inspired volunteers. You remained dedicated to the very end.

Our goal was to increase the awareness of the Centre's building campaign and focus on the kids.

Through your efforts we were able to do this and for that you have earned the respect and admiration of our community.

Sincerely,

Douglas M. Drew
Chairman

Malcolm Stewart (Almost Crown). Fifteen hundred inner-city kids, and we're talking the heart of Regent Park here, will have access to the Centre's dance, theatre, craft and music facilities. In attendance was all-girl band Blind Date; Dave Stevenson, bassist for funk band Kharece; writer/actor Brad Flores; and Olympic hurdler Mark McKoy with his pal Ben Johnson. Johnson got cornered by a travel agent in the bar who just happened to have a miniature corkscrew in his pocket. Honest! He gave it to Ben and told him to "tell the Dubin inquiry to screw off." As for not feeling up to having his photo taken, Johnson shyly offered, "My picture has been in the paper every day. This is my day off."

HEARTFELT SUPPORT: When David Blackmore, executive director of the Cabbagetown Community Arts Centre, threw a "thank you" party at C'est What to celebrate the purchase of a new building on Parliament Street, Shirley Lang's name kept coming up repeatedly. Seems her Queen Street Studio churns out much more than fashionable haircuts. "Lots of heart, that's what she has," said Blackmore of the stylist who helped organize a recent fundraiser for the Centre which drew such celebrities as actress Heidi von Palleske (Dead Ringers), the National Ballet's Vanessa Harwood, singer Wayne St. John, The Lincoln's Prakash John, rapper Michi Mee & L.A. Luv, and actress Cheryl Wilson (Learning The Ropes) with her honey, actor
