After five years in your own business, it's time to celebrate. How? Throw a bash, natch, which is just what hair-designer Shirley Lang did, to everyone's approval.

Though Lang's been in the business for more than five (she actually began styling hair at 15), she's accumulated a real Pepsi-generation clientele. It includes band members from both sides of the border, actors and comics. She's definitely a stylist for the hip-and-coming.

Tangerine's was the venue, and it recently peaked all night with lots of well-wishing friends. The evening also included the groovy sounds of The Lincolns and a fashion show featuring the designs of Elaine Tennyson, Lucietia Buzanick, Rochelle Ruck and Jessica Romano.

Among the crowd were Michael Rhodes, Michael ("the best ever") Campbell, Graham Duff, Heide von Palleske, Cathy Steel, David Hoy, Ken Bain, Michael Baustein, J.D. Roberts, Monika Deol, Lynne Gordon, Syl Coutu, Illustrated Men, John Cassini, Andre Mayers, Laura Robinson, Ken Sprackman, Catherine McClenahan, Deborah Edwards and Alistair Sutherland.

A FIRST BUT NOT THE LAST: The event at the Sheraton Centre, organized by Shirley Lang, was called a Mystical Fantasy Fashion Show and Murder Mystery Dinner, and was noteworthy for being the first fundraiser on behalf of the Children's Aid Society of Durham Region. The Society's director, Pat Reber, pointed out that due to lack of government funding, the program for sexually abused children now relies completely on public support. Helping to heighten awareness by donating their time were fashion designers Fuschia, Jessica Romano, Tracey Neale, Pearl Miller, Elaine Tennyson and special guest Marilyn Brooks. The event, which raised $2,000, drew notables Heidi von Pallese (Dead Ringers), actor John Wildman, currently filming the sequel to My American Cousin entitled My American Boyfriend, Linda Mason Green, who plays the lead in the series War Of The Worlds, singer Wayne St. John, who's just completed filming Sing with Patti LaBelle, and Olympic hurdler Mark McKoy. World champion boxer Donny Lalonde sent along a fax, thanking the organizers and attendees.

Stylish Stylist

Corey Hart, Colin
James, Haywire, The
Blushing Brides, The Nylons, Saga, The Spoons and Platinum Blonde are just a few of the people Shirley Lang has styled for.

Starting off in 1972 at the age of 15, Queen Street "musician" Shirley Lang has, over the years, become one of Canada's most important, innovative, and popular hairstressers in the music world.

As she was growing up, "there were always musicians around me" she says, and those contacts naturally translated themselves into an avid interest in working closely with them.
She feels she understands them, and that she can create a style for each individual that will suit his/her lifestyle and image.
Indoing her "a member of performers who come to her, she must be doing something right.
This isn't enough for Lang though, and she has big plans for the future. Opening up new salons around the country, as well as one in Los Angeles; travelling to Europe and Japan to learn more and maybe coming back to teach; trying new and different approaches and meeting new challenges are all possibilities for the future. "I want to keep on going, to keep on learning. There's never enough to learn..." One of her more immediate projects is the new salon she will be moving into on May 1st, in the new CityTV/MuchMusic building on

151 John St., a few steps away from her present location on Queen.

Lang's charm and personality are what really make the difference. She knows her trade well and her technique is faultless; she is versatile, able to go from neat conservative cuts to wild outlandish styles; and everything she does looks great.
But it is her understanding of the client that really matters; she does exactly what you want, informing, consulting, and suggesting to find what would look best on you, and does so with openness and experience.

And Shirley Lang does not exclusively style for rock stars. Her staff of four stylists and one esthetician, Maureen Wilkin, offer a wide range of services, including facials, manicures, and body care, which are within a students budget. Cut and blow dry is 25$ for men, 30$ for women; chemical work such as highlights is 50$ and up, while perms are 75$ and up. Bring this article in to her 369 Queen St. West salon, or 151 John St. after May 1st, and you will receive a 10% discount.
